

Rosa Parks

Rosa Louise McCauley Parks (February 4, 1913 – October 24, 2005) was an American activist in the civil rights movement best known for her pivotal role in the Montgomery bus boycott. The United States Congress has called her "the first lady of civil rights" and "the mother of the freedom movement".^[1]

On December 1, 1955, in Montgomery, Alabama, Parks rejected bus driver James F. Blake's order to relinquish her seat in the "colored section" to a white passenger, after the whites-only section was filled. Parks was not the first person to resist bus segregation, but the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) believed that she was the best candidate for seeing through a court challenge after her arrest for civil disobedience in violating Alabama segregation laws. Parks' prominence in the community and her willingness to become a controversial figure inspired the black community to boycott the Montgomery buses for over a year, the first major direct action campaign of the post-war civil rights movement. Her case became bogged down in the state courts, but the federal Montgomery bus lawsuit Browder v. Gayle succeeded in November 1956.^{[2][3]}

Parks' act of defiance and the Montgomery bus boycott became important symbols of the movement. She became an international icon of resistance to racial segregation. She organized and collaborated with civil rights leaders, including Edgar Nixon, president of the local chapter of the NAACP; and Martin Luther King, Jr., a new minister in Montgomery who gained national prominence in the civil rights movement and went on to win a Nobel Peace Prize.

At the time, Parks was secretary of the Montgomery chapter of the NAACP. She had recently attended the Highlander Folk School, a Tennessee center for training activists for workers' rights and racial equality. She acted as a private citizen "tired of giving in". Although widely honored in later years, she also suffered for her act; she was fired from her job as a seamstress in a local department store, and received death threats for years afterwards.^[4]

Shortly after the boycott, she moved to Detroit, where she briefly found similar work. From 1965 to 1988 she served as secretary and receptionist to John Conyers, an African-American US Representative. She was also active in the Black Power movement and the support of political prisoners in the US.

After retirement, Parks wrote her autobiography and continued to insist that the struggle for justice was not over and there was more work to be done.^[5] In her final years, she suffered from dementia. Parks received national recognition, including the NAACP's 1979 Spingarn Medal, the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Congressional Gold Medal, and a posthumous statue in the United States Capitol's National Statuary Hall. Upon her

Rosa Parks

Rosa Parks in 1955, with Martin Luther King Jr. in the background

Born	Rosa Louise McCauley February 4, 1913 Tuskegee, Alabama, U.S.
Died	October 24, 2005 (aged 92) Detroit, Michigan, U.S.
Resting place	Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit, Michigan, U.S.
Occupation	Civil rights activist
Known for	Montgomery bus boycott
Movement	Civil Rights Movement
Spouse(s)	Raymond Parks (m. 1932; died 1977)
Signature

death in 2005, she was the first woman to lie in honor in the Capitol Rotunda, becoming the third of only four Americans to ever receive this honor. California and Missouri commemorate Rosa Parks Day on her birthday February 4, while Ohio and Oregon commemorate the occasion on the anniversary of the day she was arrested, December 1.

Contents

Early life

- Early activism

Parks arrest and bus boycott

- Montgomery buses: law and prevailing customs

- Refusal to move

- Montgomery bus boycott

Detroit years

- 1960s

- 1970s

- 1980s

- 1990s

- 2000s

Death and funeral

Legacy and honors

In popular culture

See also

Notes

References

Further reading

External links

Early life

Rosa Parks was born Rosa Louise McCauley in Tuskegee, Alabama, on February 4, 1913, to Leona (née Edwards), a teacher, and James McCauley, a carpenter. She was of Cherokee-Creek descent ^[6] with one of her great-grandmothers having been a documented Native American slave. Additionally, she had a Scots-Irish great-grandfather.^{[7][8]} She was small as a child and suffered poor health with chronic tonsillitis. When her parents separated, she moved with her mother to Pine Level, just outside the state capital, Montgomery. She grew up on a farm with her maternal grandparents, mother, and younger brother Sylvester. They all were members of the African Methodist Episcopal Church (AME), a century-old independent black denomination founded by free blacks in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in the early nineteenth century.

McCauley attended rural schools^[9] until the age of eleven. As a student at the Industrial School for Girls in Montgomery, she took academic and vocational courses. Parks went on to a laboratory school set up by the Alabama State Teachers College for Negroes for secondary education, but dropped out in order to care for her grandmother and later her mother, after they became ill.^[10]

Around the turn of the 20th century, the former Confederate states had adopted new constitutions and electoral laws that effectively disenfranchised black voters and, in Alabama, many poor white voters as well. Under the white-established Jim Crow laws, passed after Democrats regained control of southern legislatures, racial segregation was imposed in public facilities and retail stores in the South, including public transportation. Bus and train companies enforced seating policies with separate sections for blacks and whites. School bus transportation was unavailable in any form for black schoolchildren in the South, and black education was always underfunded.

Parks recalled going to elementary school in Pine Level, where school buses took white students to their new school and black students had to walk to theirs:

I'd see the bus pass every day ... But to me, that was a way of life; we had no choice but to accept what was the custom. The bus was among the first ways I realized there was a black world and a white world.^[11]

Although Parks' autobiography recounts early memories of the kindness of white strangers, she could not ignore the racism of her society. When the Ku Klux Klan marched down the street in front of their house, Parks recalls her grandfather guarding the front door with a shotgun.^[12] The Montgomery Industrial School, founded and staffed by white northerners for black children, was burned twice by arsonists. Its faculty was ostracized by the white community.

Repeatedly bullied by white children in her neighborhood, Parks often fought back physically. She later said: "As far back as I remember, I could never think in terms of accepting physical abuse without some form of retaliation if possible."^{[13]:208}

Early activism

In 1932, Rosa married Raymond Parks, a barber from Montgomery.^{[13]:13, 15[14]} He was a member of the NAACP,^[14] which at the time was collecting money to support the defense of the Scottsboro Boys, a group of black men falsely accused of raping two white women.^{[15]:690} Rosa took numerous jobs, ranging from domestic worker to hospital aide. At her husband's urging, she finished her high school studies in 1933, at a time when less than 7% of African Americans had a high-school diploma.

In December 1943, Parks became active in the civil rights movement, joined the Montgomery chapter of the NAACP, and was elected secretary at a time when this was considered a woman's job. She later said, "I was the only woman there, and they needed a secretary, and I was too timid to say no."^[16] She continued as secretary until 1957. She worked for the local NAACP leader Edgar Nixon, even though he maintained that "Women don't need to be nowhere but in the kitchen."^[17] When Parks asked, "Well, what about me?", he replied: "I need a secretary and you are a good one."^[17]

In 1944, in her capacity as secretary, she investigated the gang-rape of Recy Taylor, a black woman from Abbeville, Alabama. Parks and other civil rights activists organized "The Committee for Equal Justice for Mrs. Recy Taylor", launching what the Chicago Defender called "the strongest campaign for equal justice to be seen in a decade."^[18]

Although never a member of the Communist Party, she attended meetings with her husband. The notorious Scottsboro case had been brought to prominence by the Communist Party.^[19]

In the 1940s, Parks and her husband were members of the Voters' League. Sometime soon after 1944, she held a brief job at Maxwell Air Force Base, which, despite its location in Montgomery, Alabama, did not permit racial segregation because it was federal property. She rode on its integrated trolley. Speaking to her biographer, Parks noted, "You might just say Maxwell opened my eyes up." Parks worked as a housekeeper and seamstress for Clifford and Virginia Durr, a white couple. Politically liberal, the Durs became her friends. They encouraged—and eventually helped sponsor—Parks in the summer of 1955 to attend the Highlander Folk School, an education center for activism in workers' rights and racial equality in Monteagle, Tennessee. There Parks was mentored by the veteran organizer Septima Clark.^[13] In 1945, despite the Jim Crow laws and discrimination by registrars, she succeeded in registering to vote on her third try.^{[15]:690}

In August 1955, black teenager Emmett Till was brutally murdered after reportedly flirting with a young white woman while visiting relatives in Mississippi.^[20] On November 27, 1955, four days before she would make her stand on the bus, Rosa Parks attended a mass meeting at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery that addressed this case as well as the recent murders of the activists George W. Lee and Lamar Smith. The featured speaker was T. R. M. Howard, a black civil rights leader from Mississippi who headed the Regional Council of Negro Leadership.^[21] Howard brought news of the recent acquittal of the two men who had murdered Till. Parks was deeply saddened and angry at the news, particularly because Till's case had garnered much more attention than any of the cases she and the Montgomery NAACP had worked on—and yet, the two men still walked free.^[22]

Parks arrest and bus boycott

Montgomery buses: law and prevailing customs

In 1900, Montgomery had passed a city ordinance to segregate bus passengers by race. Conductors were empowered to assign seats to achieve that goal. According to the law, no passenger would be required to move or give up their seat and stand if the bus was crowded and no other seats were available. Over time and by custom, however, Montgomery bus drivers adopted the practice of requiring black riders to move when there were no white-only seats left.^[23]

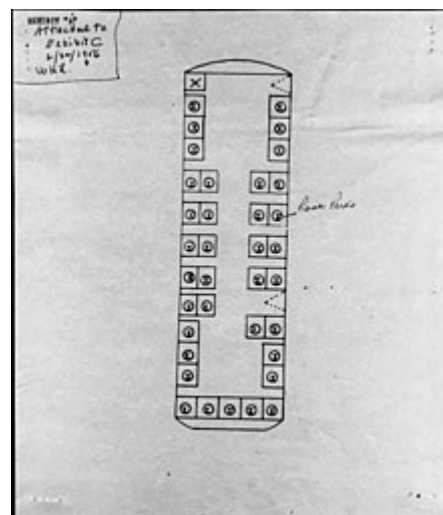

The first four rows of seats on each Montgomery bus were reserved for whites. Buses had "colored" sections for black people generally in the rear of the bus, although blacks composed more than 75% of the ridership. The sections were not fixed but were determined by placement of a movable sign. Black people could sit in the middle rows until the white section filled; if more whites needed seats, blacks were to move to seats in the rear, stand, or, if there was no room, leave the bus. Black people could not sit across the aisle in the same row as white people. The driver could move the "colored" section sign, or remove it altogether. If white people were already sitting in the front, black people had to board at the front to pay the fare, then disembark and reenter through the rear door.^[24]

For years, the black community had complained that the situation was unfair. Parks said, "My resisting being mistreated on the bus did not begin with that particular arrest. I did a lot of walking in Montgomery."^[9]

One day in 1943, Parks boarded a bus and paid the fare. She then moved to her seat but driver James F. Blake told her to follow city rules and enter the bus again from the back door. When Parks exited the vehicle, Blake drove off without her.^[25] Parks waited for the next bus, determined never to ride with Blake again.^[26]

Refusal to move

After working all day, Parks boarded the Cleveland Avenue bus, a General Motors Old Look bus belonging to the Montgomery City Lines,^[28] around 6 p.m., Thursday, December 1, 1955, in downtown Montgomery. She paid her fare and sat in an empty seat in the first row of back seats reserved for blacks in the "colored" section. Near the middle of the bus, her row was directly behind the ten seats reserved for white passengers. Initially, she did not notice that the bus driver was the same man, James F. Blake, who had left her in the rain in 1943. As the bus traveled along its regular route, all of the white-only seats in the bus filled up. The bus reached the third stop in front of the Empire Theater, and several white passengers boarded. Blake noted that two or three white passengers were standing, as the front of the bus had filled to capacity. He moved the "colored" section sign behind Parks and demanded that four black people give up their seats in the middle section so that the white passengers could sit. Years later, in

Seat layout on the bus where Parks sat, December 1, 1955

Parks was charged with a violation of Chapter 6, Section 11 segregation law of the Montgomery City code,^[38] although technically she had not taken a white-only seat; she had been in a colored section.^[39] Edgar

Police report on Parks, December 1, 1955, page 1

Nixon, president of the Montgomery chapter of the NAACP and leader of the Pullman Porters Union, and her friend Clifford Durr bailed Parks out of jail that evening.^{[40][41]}

Parks did not originate the idea of protesting segregation with a bus sit-in. Those preceding her included Bayard Rustin in 1942,^[42] Irene Morgan in 1946, Lillie Mae Bradford in 1951,^[43] Sarah Louise Keys in 1952, and the members of the ultimately successful Browder v. Gayle 1956 lawsuit (Claudette Colvin, Aurelia Browder, Susie McDonald, and Mary Louise Smith) who were arrested in Montgomery for not giving up their bus seats months before Parks.

Montgomery bus boycott

Nixon conferred with Jo Ann Robinson, an Alabama State College professor and member of the Women's Political Council (WPC), about the Parks case. Robinson believed it important to seize the opportunity and stayed up all night mimeographing over 35,000 handbills announcing a bus boycott. The Women's Political Council was the first group to officially endorse the boycott.

On Sunday, December 4, 1955, plans for the Montgomery bus boycott were announced at black churches in the area, and a front-page article in the Montgomery Advertiser helped spread the word. At a church rally that night, those attending agreed unanimously to continue the boycott until they were treated with the level of courtesy they expected, until black drivers were hired, and until seating in the middle of the bus was handled on a first-come basis.

The next day, Parks was tried on charges of disorderly conduct and violating a local ordinance. The trial lasted 30 minutes. After being found guilty and fined $10, plus $4 in court costs,^[31] Parks appealed her conviction and formally challenged the legality of racial segregation. In a 1992 interview with National Public Radio's Lynn Neary, Parks recalled:

I did not want to be mistreated, I did not want to be deprived of a seat that I had paid for. It was just time ... there was opportunity for me to take a stand to express the way I felt about being treated in that manner.^[44] I had not planned to get arrested. I had plenty to do without having to end up in jail. But when I had to face that decision, I didn't hesitate to do so because I felt that we had endured that too long. The more we gave in, the more we complied with that kind of treatment, the more oppressive it became.^[45]

On the day of Parks' trial — December 5, 1955 — the WPC distributed the 35,000 leaflets. The handbill read,

POLICE DEPARTMENT		MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA
Date of Arrest: 2-22-56	Arrested by: Day & Durr	Residence: 620 S. Cleveland Road	Montgomery
Charge: Refusing to obey order of bus driver	Disposition: $10 fine (44)	Place of Birth: Tuskegee, Ala.
Nationality: Negro		Date of Birth: Feb. 4, 1913
Age: 42	Height: 5'7"	Weight: 145	Eyes: Brown
Complexion: Black		Hair: Black
Build: Medium
Scars and Marks: None
Employed by: Security Agency, Inc.		Occupation: Administrative
Relatives: Husband, R. L. Parks
620 S. Cleveland Road
Remarks:

Rosa Parks being fingerprinted by Lieutenant D.H. Lackey on February 22, 1956^[27]

Name: Parks, Rosa		Classification: 28 MO 28 MI
Reference: 73561 Case 4
Fingerprints: 1. Thumb, 2. Index, 3. Middle, 4. Ring, 5. Little (Right Hand); 6. Thumb, 7. Index, 8. Middle, 9. Ring, 10. Little (Left Hand)
Signature: Rosa Parks, Rosa L. Parks
Date: 2-22-56

Fingerprint card of Parks

We are ... asking every Negro to stay off the buses Monday in protest of the arrest and trial ... You can afford to stay out of school for one day. If you work, take a cab, or walk. But please, children and grown-ups, don't ride the bus at all on Monday. Please stay off the buses Monday.^[46]

It rained that day, but the black community persevered in their boycott. Some rode in carpools, while others traveled in black-operated cabs that charged the same fare as the bus, 10 cents. Most of the remainder of the 40,000 black commuters walked, some as far as 20 miles (30 km).

That evening after the success of the one-day boycott, a group of 16 to 18 people gathered at the Mt. Zion AME Zion Church to discuss boycott strategies. At that time Parks was introduced but not asked to speak, despite a standing ovation and calls from the crowd for her to speak; when she asked if she should say something, the reply was, "Why, you've said enough."^[47]

The group agreed that a new organization was needed to lead the boycott effort if it were to continue. Rev. Ralph Abernathy suggested the name "Montgomery Improvement Association" (MIA).^{[48]:432} The name was adopted, and the MIA was formed. Its members elected as their president Martin Luther King, Jr., a relative newcomer to Montgomery, who was a young and mostly unknown minister of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church.^[49]

That Monday night, 50 leaders of the African-American community gathered to discuss actions to respond to Parks' arrest. Edgar Nixon, the president of the NAACP, said, "My God, look what segregation has put in my hands!"^[50] Parks was considered the ideal plaintiff for a test case against city and state segregation laws, as she was seen as a responsible, mature woman with a good reputation. She was securely married and employed, was regarded as possessing a quiet and dignified demeanor, and was politically savvy. King said that Parks was regarded as "one of the finest citizens of Montgomery—not one of the finest Negro citizens, but one of the finest citizens of Montgomery."^[9]

Parks' court case was being slowed down in appeals through the Alabama courts on their way to a Federal appeal and the process could have taken years.^[51] Holding together a boycott for that length of time would have been a great strain. In the end, black residents of Montgomery continued the boycott for 381 days. Dozens of public buses stood idle for months, severely damaging the bus transit company's finances, until the city repealed its law requiring segregation on public buses following the US Supreme Court ruling in Browder v. Gayle that it was unconstitutional. Parks was not included as a plaintiff in the Browder decision because the attorney Fred Gray concluded the courts would perceive they were attempting to circumvent her prosecution on her charges working their way through the Alabama state court system.^[52]

Parks played an important part in raising international awareness of the plight of African Americans and the civil rights struggle. King wrote in his 1958 book Stride Toward Freedom that Parks' arrest was the catalyst rather than the cause of the protest: "The cause lay deep in the record of similar injustices."^{[48]:437} He wrote, "Actually, no one can understand the action of Mrs. Parks unless he realizes that eventually the cup of endurance runs over, and the human personality cries out, 'I can take it no longer.'"^{[48]:424}

Detroit years

1960s

After her arrest, Parks became an icon of the Civil Rights Movement but suffered hardships as a result. Due to economic sanctions used against activists, she lost her job at the department store. Her husband quit his job after his boss forbade him to talk about his wife or the legal case. Parks traveled and spoke extensively about the issues.

In 1957, Raymond and Rosa Parks left Montgomery for Hampton, Virginia; mostly because she was unable to find work. She also disagreed with King and other leaders of Montgomery's struggling civil rights movement about how to proceed, and was constantly receiving death threats.^[13] In Hampton, she found a job as a hostess in an inn at Hampton Institute, a historically black college.

Parks on a Montgomery bus on December 21, 1956, the day Montgomery's public transportation system was legally integrated. Behind Parks is Nicholas C. Chriss, a UPI reporter covering the event.

Later that year, at the urging of her brother and sister-in-law in Detroit, Sylvester and Daisy McCauley, Rosa and Raymond Parks and her mother moved north to join them. The City of Detroit attempted to cultivate a progressive reputation, but Parks encountered numerous signs of discrimination against African-Americans. Schools were effectively segregated, and services in black neighborhoods substandard. In 1964, Parks told an interviewer that, "I don't feel a great deal of difference here ... Housing segregation is just as bad, and it seems more noticeable in the larger cities." She regularly participated in the movement for open and fair housing.^[53]

Parks rendered crucial assistance in the first campaign for Congress by John Conyers. She persuaded Martin Luther King (who was generally reluctant to endorse local candidates) to appear with Conyers, thereby boosting the novice candidate's profile.^[53] When Conyers was elected, he hired her as a secretary and receptionist for his congressional office in Detroit. She held this position until she retired in 1988.^[9] In a telephone interview with CNN on October 24, 2005, Conyers recalled, "You treated her with deference because she was so quiet, so serene — just a very special person ... There was only one Rosa Parks."^[54] Doing much of the daily constituent work for Conyers, Parks often focused on socio-economic issues including welfare, education, job discrimination, and affordable housing. She visited schools, hospitals, senior citizen facilities, and other community meetings and kept Conyers grounded in community concerns and activism.^[53]

Parks participated in activism nationally during the mid-1960s, traveling to support the Selma-to-Montgomery Marches, the Freedom Now Party,^[13] and the Lowndes County Freedom Organization. She also befriended Malcolm X, who she regarded as a personal hero.^[55]

Like many Detroit blacks, Parks remained particularly concerned about housing issues. She herself lived in a neighborhood, Virginia Park, which had been compromised by highway construction and urban renewal. By 1962, these policies had destroyed 10,000 structures in Detroit, displacing 43,096 people, 70 percent of them African-American. Parks lived just a mile from the epicenter of the riot that took place in Detroit in 1967, and she considered housing discrimination a major factor that provoked the disorder.^[53]

In the aftermath Parks collaborated with members of the League of Revolutionary Black Workers and the Republic of New Afrika in raising awareness of police abuse during the conflict. She served on a "people's tribunal" on August 30, 1967, investigating the killing of three young men by police during the 1967 Detroit uprising, in what came to be known as the Algiers Motel incident.^[56] She also helped form the Virginia Park district council to help rebuild the area. The council facilitated the building of the only black-owned shopping center in the country.^[53] Parks took part in the black power movement, attending the Philadelphia Black Power conference, and the Black Political Convention in Gary, Indiana. She also supported and visited the Black Panther school in Oakland.^{[57][58][59]}

1970s

In the 1970s, Parks organized for the freedom of political prisoners in the United States, particularly cases involving issues of self-defense. She helped found the Detroit chapter of the Joann Little Defense Committee, and also worked in support of the Wilmington 10, the RNA 11, and Gary Tyler.^[60] Following national outcry around her case, Little succeeded in her defense that she used deadly force to resist sexual assault and was acquitted.^[61] Gary Tyler was finally released in April 2016 after 41 years in prison.^[62]

The 1970s were a decade of loss for Parks in her personal life. Her family was plagued with illness; she and her husband had suffered stomach ulcers for years and both required hospitalization. In spite of her fame and constant speaking engagements, Parks was not a wealthy woman. She donated most of the money from speaking to civil rights causes, and lived on her staff salary and her husband's pension. Medical bills and time missed from work caused financial strain that required her to accept assistance from church groups and admirers.

Her husband died of throat cancer on August 19, 1977, and her brother, her only sibling, died of cancer that November. Her personal ordeals caused her to become removed from the civil rights movement. She learned from a newspaper of the death of Fannie Lou Hamer, once a close friend. Parks suffered two broken bones in a fall on an icy sidewalk, an injury which caused considerable and recurring pain. She decided to move with her mother into an apartment for senior citizens. There she nursed her mother Leona through the final stages of cancer and geriatric dementia until she died in 1979 at the age of 92.

Rosa Parks c.1978

1980s

In 1980, Parks—widowed and without immediate family—rededicated herself to civil rights and educational organizations. She co-founded the Rosa L. Parks Scholarship Foundation for college-bound high school seniors,^{[63][64]} to which she donated most of her speaker fees. In February 1987 she co-founded, with Elaine Eason Steele, the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute for Self Development, an institute that runs the "Pathways to Freedom" bus tours which introduce young people to important civil rights and Underground Railroad sites throughout the country. Parks also served on the Board of Advocates of Planned Parenthood.^{[65][66][67]} Though her health declined as she entered her seventies, Parks continued to make many appearances and devoted considerable energy to these causes.

1990s

Parks in 1993

In 1992, Parks published Rosa Parks: My Story, an autobiography aimed at younger readers, which recounts her life leading to her decision to keep her seat on the bus. A few years later, she published Quiet Strength (1995), her memoir, which focuses on her faith.

At age 81 Parks was robbed and assaulted in her home in central Detroit on August 30, 1994. The assailant, Joseph Skipper, broke down the door but claimed he had chased away an intruder. He requested a reward and when Parks paid him, he demanded more. Parks refused and he attacked her. Hurt and badly shaken, Parks called a friend, who called the police. A neighborhood manhunt led to Skipper's capture and reported beating. Parks was treated at Detroit Receiving Hospital for facial injuries and swelling on the right side of her face. Parks said about the attack on her by the African-American man, "Many gains have been made ... But as you can see, at this time we still have a long way to go." Skipper was sentenced to 8 to 15 years and was transferred to prison in another state for his own safety.^{[68][69][70][71]}

Suffering anxiety upon returning to her small central Detroit house following the ordeal, Parks moved into Riverfront Towers, a secure high-rise apartment building. Learning of Parks' move, Little Caesars owner Mike Ilitch offered to pay for her housing expenses for as long as necessary.^[72]

In 1994 the Ku Klux Klan applied to sponsor a portion of United States Interstate 55 in St. Louis County and Jefferson County, Missouri, near St. Louis, for cleanup (which allowed them to have signs stating that this section of highway was maintained by the organization). Since the state could not refuse the KKK's sponsorship, the Missouri legislature voted to name the highway section the "Rosa Parks Highway". When asked how she felt about this honor, she is reported to have commented, "It is always nice to be thought of."^{[73][74]}

In 1999 Parks filmed a cameo appearance for the television series Touched by an Angel.^[75] It was her last appearance on film; Parks began to suffer from health problems due to old age.

2000s

In 2002 Parks received an eviction notice from her $1,800 per month apartment for non-payment of rent. Parks was incapable of managing her own financial affairs by this time due to age-related physical and mental decline. Her rent was paid from a collection taken by Hartford Memorial Baptist Church in Detroit. When her rent became delinquent and her impending eviction was highly publicized in 2004, executives of the ownership company announced they had forgiven the back rent and would allow Parks, by then 91 and in extremely poor health, to live rent-free in the building for the remainder of her life.^[76] Elaine Steele, manager of the nonprofit Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute, told the newspaper that Parks got proper care, and that eviction notices were sent in error in 2002. Her heirs and various interest organizations alleged at the time that her financial affairs had been mismanaged.

In 2016 Rosa's Detroit house was disassembled, moved to Berlin, and partly restored.^[77]

Death and funeral

Parks died of natural causes on October 24, 2005, at the age of 92, in her apartment on the east side of Detroit. She and her husband never had children and she outlived her only sibling. She was survived by her sister-in-law (Raymond's sister), 13 nieces and nephews and their families, and several cousins, most of them residents of Michigan or Alabama.

City officials in Montgomery and Detroit announced on October 27, 2005, that the front seats of their city buses would be reserved with black ribbons in honor of Parks until her funeral. Parks' coffin was flown to Montgomery and taken in a horse-drawn hearse to the St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal (AME) church, where she lay in repose at the altar on October 29, 2005, dressed in the uniform of a church deaconess. A memorial service was held there the following morning. One of the speakers, United States Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, said that if it had not been for Parks, she would probably have never become the Secretary of State. In the evening the casket was transported to Washington, D.C. and transported by a bus similar to the one in which she made her protest, to lie in honor in the rotunda of the U.S. Capitol.

Since the founding of the practice in 1852, Parks was the 31st person, the first American who had not been a U.S. government official, and the second private person (after the French planner Pierre L'Enfant) to be honored in this way. She was the first woman and the second black person to lie in honor in the Capitol.^{[78][79]} An estimated 50,000 people viewed the casket there, and the event was broadcast on television on October 31, 2005. A memorial service was held that afternoon at Metropolitan AME Church in Washington, DC.^[80]

With her body and casket returned to Detroit, for two days, Parks lay in repose at the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History. Her funeral service was seven hours long and was held on November 2, 2005, at the Greater Grace Temple Church in Detroit. After the service, an honor guard from the Michigan National Guard laid the U.S. flag over the casket and carried it to a horse-drawn hearse, which was intended to carry it, in daylight, to the cemetery. As the hearse passed the thousands of people who were viewing the procession, many clapped, cheered loudly and released white balloons. Parks was interred between her husband and mother at Detroit's Woodlawn Cemetery in the chapel's mausoleum. The chapel was renamed the Rosa L. Parks Freedom Chapel in her honor.^[81] Parks had previously prepared and placed a headstone on the selected location with the inscription "Rosa L. Parks, wife, 1913-."

The casket of Rosa Parks at the U.S. Capitol rotunda

Legacy and honors

- 1963, Paul Stephenson established that a bus company was operating a color bar and inspired by the example of Rosa Parks' refusal to move off a "whites only" bus seat in Montgomery, Alabama, leading to the Montgomery bus boycott, a Bristol bus boycott was organized.^{[82][83]}
- 1976, Detroit renamed 12th Street "Rosa Parks Boulevard."^[84]
- 1979, the NAACP awarded Parks the Spingarn Medal,^[85] its highest honor,^[86]
- 1980, she received the Martin Luther King Jr. Award.^[87]
- 1983, she was inducted into Michigan Women's Hall of Fame for her achievements in civil rights.^[88]
- 1984, she received a Candace Award from the National Coalition of 100 Black Women.^[89]
- 1990,
 - Parks was invited to be part of the group welcoming Nelson Mandela upon his release from prison in South Africa.^[90]
 - Parks was in attendance as part of Interstate 475 outside of Toledo, Ohio was named after her.^[91]
- 1992, she received the Peace Abbey Courage of Conscience Award along with Dr. Benjamin Spock and others at the Kennedy Library and Museum in Boston, Massachusetts.
- 1993, she was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame.^[92]
- 1994, she received an honorary doctorate from Florida State University in Tallahassee, FL.^[93]
- 1994, she received an honorary doctorate from Soka University in Tokyo, Japan.^{[94][95]}
- 1995, she received the Academy of Achievement's Golden Plate Award in Williamsburg, Virginia.
- 1996, she was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the highest honor given by the US executive branch.
- 1998, she was the first to receive the International Freedom Conductor Award given by the National Underground Railroad Freedom Center.
- 1999,
 - she received the Congressional Gold Medal, the highest award given by the US legislative branch, the medal bears the legend "Mother of the Modern Day Civil Rights Movement"
 - she received the Windsor–Detroit International Freedom Festival Freedom Award.
 - Time named Parks one of the 20 most influential and iconic figures of the 20th century.^[46]
 - President Bill Clinton honored her in his State of the Union address, saying, "She's sitting down with the first lady tonight, and she may get up or not as she chooses."^[96]
- 2000,
 - Her home state awarded her the Alabama Academy of Honor,^[97]
 - She received the first Governor's Medal of Honor for Extraordinary Courage.^[98]
 - She was awarded two dozen honorary doctorates from universities worldwide.

The Rosa Parks Congressional Gold Medal

Parks and U.S. President Bill Clinton

Rosa Parks Transit Center, Detroit

- She was made an honorary member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.
- the Rosa Parks Library and Museum on the campus of Troy University in Montgomery was dedicated to her.
- 2002,
 - Scholar Molefi Kete Asante listed Parks on his list of 100 Greatest African Americans.^[99]
 - A portion of the Interstate 10 freeway in Los Angeles was named in her honor.
- 2003, Bus No. 2857 on which Parks was riding was restored and placed on display in The Henry Ford^[100]
- 2004, in the Los Angeles County MetroRail system, the Imperial Highway/Wilmington station, where the Blue Line connects with the Green Line, has been officially named the "Rosa Parks Station".^{[101][102]}
- 2005,
 - On October 30, 2005 President George W. Bush issued a proclamation ordering that all flags on U.S. public areas both within the country and abroad be flown at half-staff on the day of Parks' funeral.
 - Metro Transit in King County, Washington placed posters and stickers dedicating the first forward-facing seat of all its buses in Parks' memory shortly after her death,^{[103][104]}
 - The American Public Transportation Association declared December 1, 2005, the 50th anniversary of her arrest, to be a "National Transit Tribute to Rosa Parks Day".^[105]
 - On that anniversary, President George W. Bush signed Pub.L. 109–116 (<http://legislink.org/us/pl-109-116>), directing that a statue of Parks be placed in the United States Capitol's National Statuary Hall. In signing the resolution directing the Joint Commission on the Library to do so, the President stated:

By placing her statue in the heart of the nation's Capitol, we commemorate her work for a more perfect union, and we commit ourselves to continue to struggle for justice for every American.^[106]
- Portion of Interstate 96 in Detroit was renamed by the state legislature as the Rosa Parks Memorial Highway in December 2005.^[107]
- 2006,
 - At Super Bowl XL, played at Detroit's Ford Field, long-time Detroit residents Coretta Scott King and Parks were remembered and honored by a moment of silence. The Super Bowl was dedicated to their memory.^[108] Parks' nieces and nephews and Martin Luther King III joined the coin toss ceremonies, standing alongside former University of Michigan star Tom Brady who flipped the coin.
 - On February 14, Nassau County, New York Executive, Thomas Suozzi announced that the Hempstead Transit Center would be renamed the Rosa Parks Hempstead Transit Center in her honor.

U.S. President Barack Obama sitting on the bus. Parks was arrested sitting in the same row Obama is in, but on the opposite side.

A plaque entitled "The Bus Stop" at Dexter Ave. and Montgomery St.—the place Rosa Parks boarded the bus—pays tribute to her and the success of the Montgomery bus boycott.

The No. 2857 bus on which Parks was riding before her arrest (a GM "old-look" transit bus, serial number 1132), is now a museum exhibit at the Henry Ford Museum.

- On October 27, Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell signed a bill into law designating the portion of Pennsylvania Route 291 through Chester as the Rosa Parks Memorial Highway.^[109]
- 2007, Nashville, Tennessee, renamed MetroCenter Boulevard (8th Avenue North) (US 41A and SR 12) as Rosa L. Parks Boulevard.^[110]
- On March 14, 2008, the State of California Government Center at 464 W. 4th St., on the northwest corner of Court and 4th streets, in San Bernardino was renamed the Rosa Parks Memorial Building.^{[111][112]}
- 2009, on July 14, 2009, the Rosa Parks Transit Center opened in Detroit at the corner of Michigan and Cass Avenues.^[113]
- 2010, in Grand Rapids, Michigan, a plaza in the heart of the city was named Rosa Parks Circle.
- 2012,
 - President Barack Obama visited the famous Rosa Parks bus at the Henry Ford Museum after an event in Dearborn, Michigan, April 18, 2012.^[114]
 - A street in West Valley City, Utah (the state's second largest city), leading to the Utah Cultural Celebration Center was renamed Rosa Parks Drive.^[115]

External video

 Rosa Parks 100th Birthday
Commemoration at The Henry Ford, Dearborn, MI, February 4, 2013 (<http://www.c-span.org/video/?310700-1/rosa-parks-100th-birthday-commemoration>), C-SPAN

- 2013,
 - On February 1, President Barack Obama proclaimed February 4, 2013, as the "100th Anniversary of the Birth of Rosa Parks." He called "upon all Americans to observe this day with appropriate service, community, and education programs to honor Rosa Parks's enduring legacy."^[116]
 - On February 4, to celebrate Rosa Parks' 100th birthday, the Henry Ford Museum declared the day a "National Day of Courage" with 12 hours of virtual and on-site activities featuring nationally recognized speakers, musical and dramatic interpretative performances, a panel presentation of "Rosa's Story" and a reading of the tale "Quiet Strength". The actual bus on which Rosa Parks sat was made available for the public to board and sit in the seat that Rosa Parks refused to give up.^[117]
 - On February 4, 2,000 birthday wishes gathered from people throughout the United States were transformed into 200 graphics messages at a celebration held on her 100th Birthday at the Davis Theater for the Performing Arts in Montgomery, Alabama. This was the 100th Birthday Wishes Project managed by the Rosa Parks Museum at Troy University and the Mobile Studio and was also a declared event by the Senate.^[117]
 - During both events the USPS unveiled a postage stamp in her honor.^[118]
 - On February 27, Parks became the first African-American woman to have her likeness depicted in National Statuary Hall. The monument, created by sculptor Eugene Daub, is a part of the Capitol Art Collection among nine other females featured in the National Statuary Hall Collection.^[119]
- 2014, the asteroid 284996 Rosaparks, discovered in 2010 by the Wide-field Infrared Survey Explorer, was named in her memory.^[120] The official naming citation was published by the Minor Planet Center on 9 September 2014 (M.P.C. 89835).^{[120][121]}
- 2015,
 - The papers of Rosa Parks were cataloged into the Library of Congress, after years of a legal battle.^[122]
 - On December 13, the new Rosa Parks Railway Station opened in Paris.
- 2016,
 - The house lived in by Rosa Parks's brother, Sylvester McCauley, his wife Daisy, and their 13 children, and where Rosa Parks often visited and stayed after leaving Montgomery, was bought by her niece Rhea McCauley for $500 and donated to the artist Ryan Mendoza. It was subsequently dismantled and shipped to Berlin where it was re-erected in Mendoza's garden.^[123] In 2018 it was returned to the United States and rebuilt at the Waterfire Arts Center, Providence, Rhode Island, where it was put on public display, accompanied by a range of interpretive materials and public and scholarly events.^[124]
 - The National Museum of African American History and Culture was opened; it contains among other things the dress which Rosa Parks was sewing the day she refused to give up her seat to a white man.^{[125][126][127][a]}

In popular culture

- In 1979, the Supersisters trading card set was produced and distributed; one of the cards featured Parks's name and picture.^[129]
- In March 1999, Parks filed a lawsuit (Rosa Parks v. LaFace Records) against American hip-hop duo OutKast and their record company, claiming that the duo's song "Rosa Parks", the most successful radio single of their 1998 album Aquemini, had used her name without permission.^[130] The lawsuit was settled on April 15, 2005 (six months and nine days before Parks' death); OutKast, their producer and record labels paid Parks an undisclosed cash settlement. They also agreed to work with the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute to create educational programs about the life of Rosa Parks. The record label and OutKast admitted to no wrongdoing. Responsibility for the payment of legal fees was not disclosed.^[131]
- The documentary Mighty Times: The Legacy of Rosa Parks (2001) received a 2002 nomination for Academy Award for Documentary Short Subject. She collaborated on a TV movie of her life, The Rosa Parks Story (2002), starring Angela Bassett.^[132]
- The film Barbershop (2002) featured a barber, played by Cedric the Entertainer, arguing with others that other African Americans before Parks had been active in bus integration, but she was renowned as an NAACP secretary. The activists Jesse Jackson and Al Sharpton launched a boycott against the film, contending it was "disrespectful", but NAACP president Kweisi Mfume stated he thought the controversy was "overblown."^[133] Parks was offended and boycotted the NAACP 2003 Image Awards ceremony, which Cedric hosted.^[134]
- In 2013, Parks was portrayed by Llewella Gideon in the first series of the Sky Arts comedy series Psychobitches.^[135]
- The 2018 episode "Rosa", of the science-fiction television series Doctor Who, centers on Rosa Parks, as portrayed by Vinette Robinson.^[136]
- UK Children's Historical show Horrible Histories honored Parks by creating a song to close an episode, "Rosa Parks: I Sat on a Bus".^[137]
- In 2019, Mattel Inc released a Barbie doll in Parks's likeness as part of their "Inspiring Women" series.^{[138][139]}

See also

- | | |
|---|--|
| ▪ Claudette Colvin | ▪ Charlotte L. Brown |
| ▪ Viola Desmond | ▪ Rosa Parks Act |
| ▪ List of civil rights leaders | ▪ John Mitchell Jr. |
| ▪ Cleveland Court Apartments 620–638 | ▪ Racism in the United States |
| ▪ Elizabeth Jennings Graham | ▪ Timeline of the civil rights movement |

Notes

- a. Ruth Bonner was the daughter of Elijah B. Odom of Mississippi, an escaped slave who lived through the years of Reconstruction and segregation.^[128]

References

1. Pub.L. 106–26 (<http://legislink.org/us/pl-106-26>). Retrieved November 13, 2011. The quoted passages can be seen by clicking through to the text or PDF.
2. González, Juan; Goodman, Amy (March 29, 2013). "The Other Rosa Parks: Now 73, Claudette Colvin Was First to Refuse Giving Up Seat on Montgomery Bus" (http://www.democracynow.org/2013/3/29/the_other_rosa_parks_now_73). Democracy Now!. Pacifica Radio. 25 minutes in. NPR. Retrieved April 18, 2013.
3. Branch, Taylor (1988). "PARTING THE WATERS: America in the King Years" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130523192706/http://www.colorado.edu/conflict/branch4.htm>). Simon & Schuster. Archived from the original (<http://www.colorado.edu/conflict/branch4.htm>) on 2013-05-23. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
4. "Commentary: Rosa Parks' Role In The Civil Rights Movement". Weekend Edition Sunday, NPR. June 13, 1999. ProQuest 190159646 (<https://search.proquest.com/docview/190159646>).
5. Theoharis, Jeanne (December 1, 2015). "How History Got Rosa Parks Wrong" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/posteverything/wp/2015/12/01/how-history-got-the-rosa-parks-story-wrong/>) – via Washington Post.

6. Douglas Brinkley, Rosa Parks, Chapter 1, excerpted from the book published by Lipper/Viking (2000), ISBN 0-670-89160-6. Chapter excerpted (<http://partners.nytimes.com/books/first/b/brinkley-parks.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171019200239/http://partners.nytimes.com/books/first/b/brinkley-parks.html>) 2017-10-19 at the Wayback Machine on the site of the New York Times. Retrieved July 1, 2008
7. Brinkley, Douglas (2000). "Chapter 1 (excerpt): 'Up From Pine Level'" (<https://archive.org/details/rosaparks00brin>). Rosa Parks. Lipper/Viking; excerpt published in The New York Times. ISBN 0-670-89160-6. Retrieved July 1, 2008. Italic or bold markup not allowed in: |publisher= (help)
8. Webb, James. "Why You Need to Know the Scots-Irish" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090704152512/http://www.parade.com/articles/editions/2004/edition_10-03-2004/featured_0). Archived from the original on July 4, 2009. Retrieved September 2, 2006., Parade, October 3, 2004. Retrieved July 1, 2008.
9. Shipp, E. R. (October 25, 2005). "Rosa Parks, 92, Founding Symbol of Civil Rights Movement, Dies" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2005/10/25/us/25parks.html?pagewanted=2>). The New York Times. p. 2. Retrieved January 1, 2010.
10. Shraff, Anne (2005). Rosa Parks: Tired of Giving In (<https://books.google.com/?id=J37vgZvCI78C&pg=PA23&dq=Industrial+School+for+Girls+in+Montgomery+Rosa+Parks#v=onepage&q=Industrial%20School%20for%20Girls%20in%20Montgomery%20Rosa%20Parks&f=false>). Enslow. pp. 23–27. ISBN 978-0-7660-2463-2.
11. "The Story Behind the Bus" (<http://www.thehenryford.org/exhibits/rosaparks/story.asp>). Rosa Parks Bus. The Henry Ford. Retrieved July 1, 2008.
12. Harrington, Walt (8 October 1995). "A Person Who Wanted To Be Free" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170805101606/http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/CREC-1995-11-08/html/CREC-1995-11-08-pt1-PgE2135-2.htm>). The Washington Post Magazine. republished in Congressional Record Volume 141, Number 176; November 8, 1995. Archived from the original (<http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/CREC-1995-11-08/html/CREC-1995-11-08-pt1-PgE2135-2.htm>) on 5 August 2017. Retrieved July 19, 2016.
13. Theoharis, Jeanne (2013). The Rebellious Life of Mrs. Rosa Parks (https://books.google.com/?id=O9_YCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA208&lpg=PA208&dq=remember+rosa+parks+%22never+think+in+terms%22#v=onepage&q=remember%20rosa%20parks%20%22never%20think%20in%20terms%22&f=false). Beacon Press. ISBN 9780807076927. Retrieved July 19, 2016.
14. Crewe, Sabrina; Walsh, Frank (2002). "Chapter 3: The Boycott" (<https://books.google.com/?id=YHwiynhKj9UC&pg=PA15&dq=%22raymond+parks%22+montgomery#v=onepage&q=%22raymond%20parks%22%20montgomery&f=false>). The Montgomery Bus Boycott. Gareth Stevens. p. 15. ISBN 9780836833942. Retrieved July 19, 2016.
15. Whitaker, Matthew (March 9, 2011). Icons of Black America: Breaking Barriers and Crossing Boundaries (<https://books.google.com/?id=RSGhEUq5bp0C&lpg=PA690&dq=raymond%20parks%20%22scottsboro%20boys%22&pg=PA690#v=onepage&q=raymond%20parks%20%22scottsboro%20boys%22&f=false>). ABC-CLIO. ISBN 9780313376436.
16. Feeney, Mark (October 25, 2005). "Rosa Parks, civil rights icon, dead at 92" (http://www.boston.com/news/globe/obituaries/articles/2005/10/25/rosa_parks_civil_rights_icon_whose_single_act_sparked_a_movement_at_92/). Boston Globe. Retrieved July 31, 2009.
17. Olson, L. (2001). Freedom's Daughters: The Unsung Heroines of the Civil Rights Movement from 1830 to 1970 (https://books.google.com/books?id=lddD_IFIjISc&pg=PA97). Scribner. p. 97. ISBN 9780684850122. Retrieved August 1, 2015.
18. McGuire, Danielle (December 1, 2012). "Opinion: It's time to free Rosa Parks from the bus" (<http://inamerica.blogs.cnn.com/2012/12/01/opinion-its-time-to-free-rosa-parks-from-the-bus/>). CNN. Retrieved December 22, 2012.
19. "How 'Communism' Brought Racial Equality To The South" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=123771194>). Tell Me More. National Public Radio. February 16, 2010. Retrieved July 19, 2016.
20. "Justice Department to Investigate 1955 Emmett Till Murder" (https://www.usdoj.gov/opa/pr/2004/May/04_crt_311.htm), United States Department of Justice, May 2004. Retrieved May 27, 2007. R. Alexander Acosta, Assistant Attorney General for the Civil Rights Division, states, "This brutal murder and grotesque miscarriage of justice outraged a nation and helped galvanize support for the modern American civil rights movement."
21. Beito, David T.; Royster Beito, Linda (2009). Black Maverick: T. R. M. Howard's Fight for Civil Rights and Economic Power. Urbana: University of Illinois Press. pp. 138–39.

22. "Emmett Till | The Rebellious Life of Mrs. Rosa Parks" (<http://rosaparksbiography.org/bio/emmett-till/>). rosaparksbiography.org. Retrieved September 11, 2016.
23. Browder v. Gayle, 142 F. Supp. 707 (1956)
24. Garrow, David J. Bearing the Cross: Martin Luther King Jr. and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. (1986) ISBN 0-394-75623-1, p. 13.
25. "James F. Blake" (<https://www.theguardian.com/news/2002/mar/27/guardianobituaries>), The Guardian obituaries, March 26, 2002. Retrieved December 27, 2016.
26. Woo, Elaine (October 25, 2005). "She Set Wheels of Justice in Motion" (<http://articles.latimes.com/2005/oct/25/nation/na-parks25>). Los Angeles Times. Retrieved July 22, 2011.
27. Yawn, Andrew J. (2018-12-05). "Alabama officer recalls 1955 arrest of Rosa Parks" (<https://www.pressherald.com/2018/12/05/alabama-officer-recalls-1955-arrest-of-rosa-parks/>). Press Herald. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181205204146/https://www.pressherald.com/2018/12/05/alabama-officer-recalls-1955-arrest-of-rosa-parks/>) from the original on 2018-12-05. Retrieved 2019-09-16.
28. "Archived copy" (https://web.archive.org/web/20150906131826/http://www.busmag.com/pdfs/2002-09_RPBus.pdf) (PDF). Archived from the original (http://www.busmag.com/pdfs/2002-09_RPBus.pdf) (PDF) on September 6, 2015. Retrieved March 14, 2016.
29. Williams, Donnie; Greenhaw, Wayne (2005). The Thunder of Angels: The Montgomery Bus Boycott and the People who Broke the Back of Jim Crow (<https://archive.org/details/thunderofangelsm00will/page/48>). Chicago Review Press. p. 48 (<https://archive.org/details/thunderofangelsm00will/page/48>). ISBN 1-55652-590-7.
30. Parks, Rosa (1992). "Main Reason For Keeping Her Seat". "Parks Recalls Bus Boycott, Excerpts from an interview with Lynn Neary" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141201233016/http://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973703>) (radio interview). Interviewed by Lynn Neary. National Public Radio. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973703>) (adobe flash) on 2014-12-01. Retrieved December 1, 2014. linked at "Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks Dies" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20051102021843/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>). NPR. October 25, 2005. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>) on November 2, 2005. Retrieved July 4, 2008.
31. "Civil rights icon Rosa Parks dies at 92" (<http://www.cnn.com/2005/US/10/24/parks.obit/>), CNN, October 25, 2005. Retrieved July 4, 2008.
32. Audio interview of Parks linked from "Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks Dies" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548&sourceCode=gaw>), National Public Radio, October 25, 2005. Retrieved July 4, 2008.
33. Houck, Davis; Grindy, Matthew (2008). Emmett Till and the Mississippi Press. Jackson, Miss.: University Press of Mississippi. p. x. ISBN 9781604733044.
34. Williams, Juan (2002). Eyes on the Prize: America's Civil Rights Years, 1954-1965 (<https://archive.org/details/eyesonprizeameri00will/page/66>). Penguin Books. p. 66 (<https://archive.org/details/eyesonprizeameri00will/page/66>). ISBN 0-14-009653-1.
35. Marsh, Charles (2006). The Beloved Community: How Faith Shapes Social Justice from the Civil Rights to Today. Basic Books. p. 21. ISBN 0-465-04416-6.
36. Parks, Rosa; James Haskins (1992). Rosa Parks: My Story (https://archive.org/details/rosaparksmystory00park_0/page/116). Dial Books. p. 116 (https://archive.org/details/rosaparksmystory00park_0/page/116). ISBN 0-8037-0673-1.
37. Rosa Parks Interview (<http://achievement.org/autodoc/page/par0int-1>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/2011004015059/http://achievement.org/autodoc/page/par0int-1>) October 4, 2011, at the Wayback Machine (video and text of interview), Academy of Achievement, June 2, 1995. Retrieved November 13, 2011.
38. Wright, Roberta Hughes (1991). The Birth of the Montgomery Bus Boycott (<https://archive.org/details/birthofmontgomer00hugh/page/27>). Charro Press. p. 27 (<https://archive.org/details/birthofmontgomer00hugh/page/27>). ISBN 0-9629468-0-X.
39. Hawken, Paul (2007). Blessed Unrest: How the Largest Movement in the World Came Into Being, and Why No One Saw it Coming (<https://archive.org/details/blessedunresthow00hawk/page/79>). Viking. p. 79 (<https://archive.org/details/blessedunresthow00hawk/page/79>). ISBN 978-0-670-03852-7.

40. Phibbs, Cheryl (2009). The Montgomery Bus Boycott: A History and Reference Guide (<https://books.google.com/?id=HKPtINXNILsC&pg=PA15&dq=booked,+fingerprinted,+imprisoned+clifford+fred+Gray+danger+white+activist+lawyer+volunteered+make+bail+parks+took+home+e.d.+nixon+Later+evening+station#v=onepage&q=booked%2C%20fingerprinted%2C%20imprisoned%20clifford%20fred%20Gray%20danger%20white%20activist%20lawyer%20volunteered%20make%20bail%20parks%20took%20home%20e.d.%20nixon%20Later%20evening%20station&f=false>). Greenwood. p. 15. ISBN 978-0313358876.
41. Burns, Stewart (1997). Daybreak of Freedom: The Montgomery Bus Boycott (<https://archive.org/details/daybreakoffreedom00burn/page/9>). UNC Press. p. 9 (<https://archive.org/details/daybreakoffreedom00burn/page/9>). ISBN 0-8078-4661-9.
42. Rustin, Bayard (July 1942). "Non-Violence vs. Jim Crow". Fellowship. reprinted in Carson, Clayborne; Garrow, David J.; Kovach, Bill (2003). Reporting Civil Rights: American journalism, 1941–1963 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=9j8OAQAAMAAJ>). Library of America. pp. 15–18. Retrieved September 13, 2011.
43. Borger, Julian (3 April 2006). "Civil rights heroes may get pardons" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2006/apr/04/usa.julianborger>). The Guardian. Retrieved 23 March 2017.
44. Parks, Rosa (1992). "Main Reason For Keeping Her Seat". "Parks Recalls Bus Boycott, Excerpts from an interview with Lynn Neary" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141201233016/http://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973703>) (radio interview). Interviewed by Lynn Neary. National Public Radio. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973703>) (adobe flash) on 2014-12-01. Retrieved December 1, 2014. linked at "Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks Dies" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20051102021843/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>). NPR. October 25, 2005. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>) on November 2, 2005. Retrieved December 1, 2014.
45. Parks, Rosa (1992). "On the possibility of Arrest". "Parks Recalls Bus Boycott, Excerpts from an interview with Lynn Neary" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141201232854/http://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973699>). National Public Radio (radio interview). Interviewed by Lynn Neary. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/player/v2/mediaPlayer.html?action=1&t=1&islist=false&id=4973548&m=4973699>) (adobe flash) on 2014-12-01. Retrieved December 1, 2014. linked at "Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks Dies" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20051102021843/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>). NPR. October 25, 2005. Archived from the original (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548>) on November 2, 2005. Retrieved December 1, 2014.
46. Dove, Rita (June 14, 1999). "Heroes and Icons: Rosa Parks: Her simple act of protest galvanized America's civil rights revolution" (<http://www.time.com/time/time100/heroes/profile/parks01.html>). Time. Retrieved July 4, 2008.
47. Crosby, Emily (2011). Civil Rights History from the Ground Up (<https://books.google.com/?id=gwVbvfYfYZKc&pg=PA408&lpg=PA408&dq=rosa+parks+%22You've+said+enough%22#v=onepage&q=rosa%20parks%20%22You've%20said%20enough%22&f=false>). google.com. ISBN 9780820338651.
48. Washington, James M. (1991). A Testament of Hope: The Essential Writings and Speeches of Martin Luther King, Jr (<https://archive.org/details/testamentofhope00mart>). HarperCollins. ISBN 0-06-064691-8.
49. Shipp, E. R. (October 25, 2005). "Rosa Parks, 92, Founding Symbol of Civil Rights Movement, Dies" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2005/10/25/national/25parks.html>). The New York Times. p. 1. Retrieved July 4, 2008.
50. Parks, Rosa; Haskins, James (1992). Rosa Parks: My Story (https://archive.org/details/rosaparksmystory00park_0/page/125). Dial Books. p. 125 (https://archive.org/details/rosaparksmystory00park_0/page/125). ISBN 0-8037-0673-1.
51. "The Freedom Rides of 1961" (<http://civics.sites.unc.edu/files/2012/05/FreedomRides1.pdf>) (PDF). NC Civic Education Consortium. University of North Carolina. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
52. "Browder v. Gayle, 352 US 903 (1956)" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130315140851/http://mlk-kpp01.stanford.edu/index.php/encyclopedia/encyclopedia/enc_browder_v_gayle/). King Institute Encyclopedia. Stanford University. Archived from the original (http://mlk-kpp01.stanford.edu/index.php/encyclopedia/encyclopedia/enc_browder_v_gayle/) on 2013-03-15. Retrieved February 5, 2013.

53. Theoharis, Jeanne (2012). "'The northern promised land that wasn't': Rosa Parks and the Black Freedom Struggle in Detroit" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141207061017/http://www.virginia.edu/lifetimelearning/civilrights/articles/Rosa%20Parks%20and%20the%20Black%20Freedom%20Struggle%20in%20Detroit.pdf>) (PDF). OAH Magazine of History. 26 (1): 23–27. doi:10.1093/oahmag/oar054 (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Foahmag%2Foar054>). Archived from the original (<http://www.virginia.edu/lifetimelearning/civilrights/articles/Rosa%20Parks%20and%20the%20Black%20Freedom%20Struggle%20in%20Detroit.pdf>) (PDF) on December 7, 2014.
54. "Parks remembered for her courage, humility" (<http://www.cnn.com/2005/US/10/25/parks.reax/index.html>). CNN. October 30, 2005. Retrieved July 1, 2008.
55. Theoharis, Jeanne (March 2, 2013). "10 Things You Didn't Know About Rosa Parks" (http://www.huffingtonpost.com/jeanne-theoharis/rosa-parks-100th-birthday_b_2614678.html). Huffington Post. Retrieved August 1, 2015.
56. "The People's Tribunal on the Algiers Motel Killings | The Rebellious Life of Mrs. Rosa Parks" (<http://rosaparksbiography.org/bio/the-peoples-tribunal-on-the-algiers-motel-killings/>). rosaparksbiography.org. Retrieved September 11, 2016.
57. "From Alabama to Detroit: Rosa Parks' Rebellious Life" (<http://psc-cuny.org/clarion/march-2013/alabama-detroit-r-osa-parks-rebellious-life>). psc-cuny.org.
58. "'I Don't Believe in Gradualism': Rosa Parks and the Black Power Movement in Detroit" (http://citation.allacademic.com/meta/p_mla_apa_research_citation/5/2/2/1/9/p522193_index.html?phpsessid=52461e5fbc3ff8d78be0c47d44ef4d26). allacademic.com.
59. "Stamp ceremony kicks off day in Parks' honor" (<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/nation/2013/02/02/rosa-parks-stamp/1885129/>). USA Today. February 3, 2013.
60. "Prisoner Defense Committees | The Rebellious Life of Mrs. Rosa Parks" (<http://rosaparksbiography.org/bio/prisoner-defense-committees/>). rosaparksbiography.org. Retrieved September 11, 2016.
61. Theoharis, Jeanne; Woodard, Komozi (2009). "A Life History of Being Rebellious: The Radicalism of Rosa Parks" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=X3MblyzDsfc&pg=PR4&dq=jeanne+theoharis,&hl=en&sa=X&ei=C-GJVJbVKdOIsQTT2oKoAw&ved=0CEMQ6AEwBw#v=onepage&q=rosa%20parks&f=false>). In Gore, Dayo F. (ed.). Want to Start a Revolution? Radical Women in the Black Freedom Struggle. New York University Press. pp. 131–132.
62. "Gary Tyler a free man after more than 4 decades in Angola" (http://www.nola.com/crime/index.ssf/2016/04/gary_tyler_a_free_man_after_mo.html). Retrieved September 11, 2016.
63. "Editorial: Rosa Parks' legacy: non-violent power" (http://www.madisonet.com/site/index.cfm?newsid=15486990&BRD=1302&PAG=461&dept_id=181987&rfti=8) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090715141805/http://www.madisonet.com/site/index.cfm?newsid=15486990&BRD=1302&PAG=461&dept_id=181987&rfti=8) July 15, 2009, at the Wayback Machine, Madison Daily Leader, October 31, 2005. Retrieved November 13, 2011.
64. The Rosa L. Parks Scholarship Foundation (<http://www.rosaparksscholarshipfoundation.org/>), main page. Retrieved November 13, 2011. (Not a citation for Parks's role as a founder, just for the foundation itself.)
65. "Rosa Parks" (<http://www.biography.com/people/rosa-parks-9433715?page=4>). Biography.com.
66. O'Reilly, Andrea (2010). "Parks, Rosa" (<https://books.google.com/?id=Pcxqzal4bEYC&pg=PA969&dq=%22Parks+also+served+as+a+member+of+the+Board+of+Advocates+of+the+Planned+Parenthood+Federation+of+America%22#v=onepage&q=%22Parks%20also%20served%20as%20a%20member%20of%20the%20Board%20of%20Advocates%20of%20the%20Planned%20Parenthood%20Federation%20of%20America%22&f=false>). Encyclopedia of Motherhood, Volume 1. SAGE Publishing. p. 969. ISBN 9781412968461.
67. Levintova, Hannah (September 17, 2015). "Republicans Hate Planned Parenthood But Want to Put One of Its Backers on the $10 Bill" (<https://www.motherjones.com/mojo/2015/09/gop-candidates-who-hate-planned-parenthood-want-put-rosa-parks-planned-parenthood-board>). Mother Jones.
68. "Rosa Parks Robbed and Beaten" (<http://nytimes.com/1994/08/31/us/rosa-parks-robbed-and-beaten.html>) New York Times, August 31, 1994. Retrieved January 13, 2017.
69. "1994 Mugging Reveals Rosa Park's True Character" (<http://womensenews.org/2013/02/1994-mugging-reveals-rosa-parks-true-character/>) Women's eNews, February 2, 2013. Retrieved January 13, 2017.
70. "Man Gets Prison Term For Attack on Rosa Parks", San Francisco Chronicle, August 8, 1995.

71. "Assailant Recognized Rosa Parks" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1955&dat=19940902&id=WmMxAAAAIBAJ&sjid=Q6IFAAAAIBAJ&pg=3582,937539>). Detroit Free Press. reprinted in the Reading Eagle, 2 September 1994. Associated Press. 3 September 1994. Retrieved 13 November 2011. Italic or bold markup not allowed in: |publisher= (help)
72. Botta, Christopher (24 February 2014). "Ilitch aids civil rights pioneer Rosa Parks, others" (<http://www.sportsbusinessdaily.com/Journal/Issues/2014/02/24/Champions/Ilitch-Rosa-Parks.aspx>). Sports Business Daily. Retrieved 16 February 2017.
73. Rosenthal, Ilena (February 4, 2003). "Happy Birthday, Rosa Parks!" (<https://web.archive.org/web/2009081723310/http://www.womensenews.org/article.cfm/dyn/aid/1210/context/ourdailylives>). WomenseNews.org. Archived from the original (<http://www.womensenews.org/article.cfm/dyn/aid/1210/context/ourdailylives>) on August 17, 2009. Retrieved February 2, 2009.
74. "The Name Game" (<http://www.snopes.com/inboxer/outrage/rosapark.htm>). Snopes.com. 3 December 2007. Retrieved 13 November 2001.
75. Masius, John (2 May 1999). "Black Like Monica". Touched By An Angel. Season 5. Episode 23. CBS. CBS.
76. "Landlord won't ask Rosa Parks to pay rent" (http://www.nbcnews.com/id/6659487/ns/us_news-life/t/landlord-won-t-task-rosa-parks-pay-rent/). NBCNews.com. Associated Press. December 6, 2004. Retrieved May 28, 2010.
77. McGrane, Sally (May 2, 2017). "Saved From Demolition, Rosa Parks's House Gets a Second Life" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2017/05/02/world/europe/rosa-parks-house-berlin.html>). The New York Times.
78. "Those Who Have Lain in State" (http://www.aoc.gov/cc/capitol/lain_in_state.cfm). Architect of the Capitol. 2009-12-01. Retrieved December 1, 2009.
79. Memorial or Funeral Services in the Capitol Rotunda (<https://www.senate.gov/artandhistory/history/resources/pdf/LyingState.pdf>), senate.gov (United States Senate); content cited to Architect of the Capitol. Retrieved November 23, 2011.
80. Wilgoren, Debbi; Labbe, Theola S. (1 November 2005). "An Overflowing Tribute to an Icon" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/10/31/AR2005103100370.html>). The Washington Post. Retrieved December 10, 2012.
81. Esparza, Santiago. "Parks to remain private in death", Detroit News, November 3, 2005. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060614033729/http://www.indystar.com/apps/pbcs.dll/article?AID=%2F20051103%2FNEWS06%2F511030463%2F1012>). Archived from the original on June 14, 2006. Retrieved May 12, 2017.. Retrieved July 5, 2008.
82. Madge Dresser, Black and White on the Buses, Bristol: Bristol BroadSides, 1986. ISBN 0-906944-30-9., pp. 16–17.
83. Jon Kelly (27 August 2013). "What was behind the Bristol bus boycott?" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/magazine-23795655>). BBC News Magazine.
84. "Rosa L. Parks Collection. Papers, 1955-1976" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120121124149/http://www.reuther.wayne.edu/files/UP000775.pdf>) (PDF). Walter P. Reuther Library. p. 1. Archived from the original (<http://www.reuther.wayne.edu/files/UP000775.pdf>) (PDF) on January 21, 2012. Retrieved November 22, 2011.
85. Spingarn Medal Winners: 1915 to Today (<http://www.naacp.org/index.php/pages/spingarn-medal-winners>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100707201030/http://www.naacp.org/index.php/pages/spingarn-medal-winners>) July 7, 2010, at the Wayback Machine, NAACP, no date but list goes through 2010. Retrieved November 13, 2011.
86. NAACP Honors Congressman Conyers With 92nd Spingarn Medal (<http://www.naacp.org/news/press/2007-04-03/index.htm>) Archived (<http://arquivo.pt/wayback/20090627213311/http://www.naacp.org/news/press/2007-04-03/index.htm>) June 27, 2009, at the Portuguese Web Archive, NAACP press release, April 3, 2007. Retrieved July 9, 2008.
87. "Black History Month" (http://www.gale.cengage.com/free_resources/bhm/bio/parks_r.htm). gale.cengage.com. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
88. "Michigan Women's Hall of Fame" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141010205426/http://hall.michiganwomen.org/honoree.php?C=177&>). Hall.michiganwomen.org. Archived from the original (<http://hall.michiganwomen.org/honoree.php?C=177&>) on October 10, 2014. Retrieved August 13, 2012.

89. "CANDACE AWARD RECIPIENTS 1982-1990, Page 3" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20030314213306/http://www.ncbw.org/programs/award3.html>). National Coalition of 100 Black Women. Archived from the original (<http://www.ncbw.org/programs/award3.html>) on March 14, 2003.
90. Ashby, Ruth. Rosa Parks: Freedom Rider, Sterling Publishing ISBN 978-1-4027-4865-3
91. "Part of I-475 named for Parks" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1817&dat=19900509&id=bjkdAAAAIAJ&sjid=6KUEAAAAIAJ&pg=1541,3256480>). Tuscaloosa News. September 5, 1990. Retrieved June 20, 2012.
92. National Women's Hall of Fame, Rosa Parks (<https://www.womenofthehall.org/inductee/rosa-parks/>).
93. "Florida Flambeau" (<http://fsu.digital.flvc.org/islandora/object/fsu:478009#page/Page+1/mode/2up>). November 22, 1994. Retrieved 22 February 2019.
94. "Rosa Parks Biography" (<http://www.rosaparks.org/biography/>). Rosa Parks Foundation. January 22, 2005. Retrieved 23 October 2015.
95. "Rosa Parks Speaks at Soka University" (<https://www.loc.gov/item/2015647350/>). United States Library of Congress. March 16, 2000. Retrieved 23 October 2015.
96. "1999 State of the Union Address" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/politics/special/states/docs/sou99.htm>). The Washington Post. January 28, 2000. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
97. "Alabama Puts Rosa Parks In Its Academy Of Honor" (<http://articles.chicagotribune.com/keyword/rosa-parks/featured/2>). Chicago Tribune. Retrieved December 17, 2011.
98. Company, Johnson Publishing (December 18, 2000). "Rosa Parks Museum Dedicated During Civil Rights Movement Anniversary Gala in Montgomery" (<https://books.google.com/?id=CbYDAAAAMBAJ&pg=PA8&lpg=PA8&dq=rosa+parks+Governor%27s+Medal+of+Honor+for+Extraordinary+Courage#v=onepage&q=rosa%20parks%20Governor%27s%20Medal%20of%20Honor%20for%20Extraordinary%20Courage&f=false>). Jet. 8. Retrieved December 17, 2011.
99. Asante, Molefi Kete (2002). "Rosa Parks". 100 Greatest African Americans: A Biographical Encyclopedia. Amherst, New York: Prometheus Books. ISBN 1-57392-963-8.
100. "Parks Bus Restored" (<http://www.thehenryford.org/exhibits/rosaparks/restoration.asp>). Retrieved June 20, 2012.
101. "MAX station renamed to honor Rosa Parks" (https://web.archive.org/web/20101202100350/http://trimet.org/news/releases/2009/feb4_rosaparks.htm). TriMet. February 4, 2009. Archived from the original (http://trimet.org/news/releases/2009/feb4_rosaparks.htm) on December 2, 2010. Retrieved November 27, 2009.
102. "TriMet MAX station name honors Rosa Parks" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110608040759/http://www.portlandtribune.com/news/story.php?story_id=123370481045853000). Portland Tribune. February 3, 2009. Archived from the original (http://www.portlandtribune.com/news/story.php?story_id=123370481045853000) on June 8, 2011. Retrieved February 10, 2009.
103. "Rosa Parks Honored on Metro Bus Fleet" (<http://transit.metrokc.gov/up/archives/2005/rosaparks.html>), King County Metro Online. Retrieved July 5, 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090814081349/http://transit.metrokc.gov/up/archives/2005/rosaparks.html>) August 14, 2009, at the Wayback Machine
104. Local Digest (<http://community.seattletimes.nwsources.com/archive/?date=20051101&slug=dige01m>) item "Buses are memorial to Rosa Parks", Seattle Times, November 1, 2005. Retrieved November 13, 2011.
105. "National Transit Tribute to Rosa Parks Day" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070927220506/http://www.apta.com/rosa/index.cfm>). American Public Transportation Association. September 27, 2007. Archived from the original (<http://www.apta.com/rosa/index.cfm>) on 27 September 2007. Retrieved 13 November 2011.
106. "President Signs H.R. 4145 to Place Statue of Rosa Parks in U.S. Capitol" (<https://georgewbush-whitehouse.archives.gov/news/releases/2005/12/20051201-1.html>). 2005-12-01. Retrieved December 4, 2005.
107. "Michigan Memorial Highway Act (Excerpt) Act 142 of 2001, 250.1098 Rosa Parks Memorial Highway" (<http://www.legislature.mi.gov/mileg.aspx?page=GetMCLDocument&objectname=mcl-250-1098>). Michigan Legislature. 2001. Retrieved August 18, 2006.
108. "Rosa Parks" (<https://archive.is/20130407192948/http://www.birdsofwinter.com/944/>). birdsofwinter.com. Archived from the original (<http://www.birdsofwinter.com/944/>) on April 7, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
109. Act 127 (<http://www.legis.state.pa.us/cfdocs/legis/li/uconsCheck.cfm?yr=2006&sessInd=0&act=127>), Pennsylvania General Assembly, 2006, retrieved March 30, 2018

110. "Tennessee Career Center at Metro Center" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120113211130/http://www.tn.gov/lab-or-wfd/cc/cccounty_files/davidson.htm). Department of Labor and Workforce Development. Archived from the original (http://www.tn.gov/labor-wfd/cc/cccounty_files/davidson.htm) on January 13, 2012. Retrieved December 17, 2011.
111. "State building renamed to honor Rosa Parks | News" (https://www.highlandnews.net/news/state-building-renamed-to-honor-rosa-parks/article_de15d2b3-ee18-5297-adb7-dd9d30d1dde4.html). highlandnews.net. Retrieved 2019-04-23.
112. "No, March Fong Eu Isn't The First Woman To Have A California State Building Named After Her (But It Was Close)" (<http://www.caprдио.org/articles/2019/03/26/no-california-didnt-just-name-a-building-after-a-woman-for-the-first-time-but-it-was-close/>). capradio.org. 2019-03-28. Retrieved 2019-04-03.
113. Shea, Bill (9 July 2009). "Detroit's Rosa Parks Transit Center opens Tuesday" (<http://www.crainsdetroit.com/article/20090709/FREE/907099997>). Crain's Business Detroit. Retrieved April 18, 2010.
114. "President Barack Obama Sits On The Famed Rosa Parks Bus" (<https://obamawhitehouse.archives.gov/photos-and-video/photo/2012/04/president-barack-obama-sits-famed-rosa-parks-bus>). The White House Barack Obama. Retrieved 26 April 2019.
115. Neugebauer, Cimaron (November 15, 2012). "West Valley City renames street after Rosa Parks" (<http://www.sltrib.com/sltrib/news/55286148-78/parks-rosa-west-valley.html.csp>). The Salt Lake Tribune.
116. "Presidential Proclamation -- 100th Anniversary of the Birth of Rosa Parks" (<https://www.whitehouse.gov/the-press-office/2013/02/01/presidential-proclamation-100th-anniversary-birth-rosa-parks>). Retrieved February 5, 2013.
117. "OBSERVING THE 100TH BIRTHDAY OF ROSA PARKS" (<http://thomas.loc.gov/cgi-bin/query/z?r112:S19DE2-0050:/>). Congressional Record 112th Congress (2011–2012). Library of Congress. December 19, 2012. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
118. "Rosa Parks stamp unveiled for late civil rights icon's 100th birthday" (http://www.cbsnews.com/8301-201_162-57567472/rosa-parks-stamp-unveiled-for-late-civil-rights-icons-100th-birthday/). CBS News. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
119. "Rosa Parks: First Statue of African-American Female to Grace Capitol" (<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/OTUS/rosa-parks-full-bodied-statue-african-american-depicted/story?id=18608892>). ABC News. Retrieved February 27, 2013.
120. "MPC/MPO/MPS Archive" (https://www.minorplanetcenter.net/iau/ECS/MPCArchive/MPCArchive_TBL.html). Minor Planet Center. Retrieved 22 October 2018.
121. "284996 Rosaparks (2010 LD58)" (https://www.minorplanetcenter.net/db_search/show_object?object_id=284996). Minor Planet Center. Retrieved 22 October 2018.
122. Cornish, Audie (7 February 2015). "After years in Lockdown, Rosa Parks' Papers Head To Library of Congress" (<https://www.npr.org/blogs/codeswitch/2015/02/07/384107183/after-years-in-lockdown-rosa-parks-papers-head-to-library-of-congress>). NPR. Retrieved February 9, 2015.
123. "Why Rosa Parks' house now stands in Berlin" (<http://www.dw.com/en/why-rosa-parks-house-now-stands-in-berlin/a-38343924>). www.dw.com. Retrieved April 10, 2017.
124. "'The Rosa Parks House Project' - WaterFire Arts Center" (<https://artscenter.waterfire.org/rosa-parks-house-project/>). WaterFire Arts Center. Retrieved October 21, 2018.
125. Givhan, Robin (May 23, 2010). "Black Fashion Museum Collection Finds a Fine Home With Smithsonian" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/05/21/AR2010052101654.html>). The Washington Post. Retrieved January 30, 2012.
126. Limbong, Andrew (August 31, 2017). "Ruth Bonner, Woman Who Helped Open Smithsonian African-American Museum, Dies" (<https://www.npr.org/2017/08/31/547646636/ruth-bonner-woman-who-helped-open-smithsonian-african-american-museum-dies>). NPR. Retrieved September 1, 2017.
127. Contrera, Jessica (September 25, 2016). "Descended from a slave, this family helped to open the African American Museum with Obama" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/arts-and-entertainment/wp/2016/09/25/descended-from-a-slave-this-family-helped-to-open-the-african-american-museum-with-obama/>). The Washington Post. Retrieved September 1, 2017.
128. Cite error: The named reference :1 was invoked but never defined (see the help page).

129. Wulf, Steve (March 23, 2015). "Supersisters: Original Roster" (<http://espn.go.com/espnw/news-commentary/article/12535055/original-roster>). ESPN.go.com. Retrieved June 4, 2015.
130. Wallinger, Hanna (2006). Transitions: Race, Culture, and the Dynamics of Change. LIT Verlag Berlin-Hamburg-Münster. p. 126. ISBN 3-8258-9531-9.
131. Jet, Vol. 107, No. 18, May 2, 2005
132. The Rosa Parks Story (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0293562/>) on IMDb
133. "'Barbershop' actor to host Image Awards" (<http://articles.latimes.com/2003/jan/25/entertainment/et-filler25>). Los Angeles Times. Associated Press. January 25, 2003. Retrieved November 13, 2011.
134. "Rosa Parks boycotts NAACP awards ceremony" (http://www.recordnet.com/apps/pbcs.dll/article?AID=/20030309/A_NEWS/303099980). Recordnet.com. Associated Press. March 9, 2003. Retrieved November 22, 2011.
135. "British Comedy Guide - People - Llewella Gideon" (https://www.comedy.co.uk/people/llewella_gideon/). British Comedy Guide. Retrieved 27 August 2019.
136. "Doctor Who – Series 11 - Episode 3 Rosa" (<https://www.radiotimes.com/tv-programme/e/g546cj/doctor-who--s11-e3-rosa/>). Radio Times. Retrieved 11 October 2018.
137. "Rosa Parks: I Sat on a Bus" (<https://vimeo.com/192828358>) (audio dubbed). Vimeo. Horrible Histories (episodes on program's website accessible in UK). Retrieved 11 March 2019.
138. Caviness, Sarah (27 August 2019). "Barbie launches new 'Inspiring Women' dolls honoring Rosa Parks, Sally Ride" (<https://wjla.com/news/entertainment/barbie-launches-new-inspiring-women-dolls-honoring-rosa-parks-sally-ride>). WJLA 24/7 News. Retrieved 27 August 2019.
139. Macht, Daniel. "Barbie Releases Dolls Honoring Rosa Parks, Sally Ride - NBC4 Washington" (<https://www.nbcwashington.com/entertainment/the-scene/Barbie-Releases-Dolls-Honoring-Rosa-Parks-Sally-Ride-558441021.html>). Nbcwashington.com. Retrieved 2019-08-29.

Further reading

- Editorial. 1974. "Two decades later." New York Times (May 17): 38. ("Within a year of Brown, Rosa Parks, a tired seamstress in Montgomery, Alabama, was, like Homer Plessy sixty years earlier, arrested for her refusal to move to the back of the bus.")
- Barnes, Catherine A. Journey from Jim Crow: The Desegregation of Southern Transit, Columbia University Press, 1983.
- Rosa Parks with James Haskins, Rosa Parks: My Story New York: Scholastic Inc., 1992. ISBN 0-590-46538-4
- Brinkley, Douglas. Rosa Parks: A Life, Penguin Books, October 25, 2005. ISBN 0-14-303600-9
- The Rebellious Life of Mrs. Rosa Parks by Jeanne Theoharis, Beacon Press, 2015, ISBN 9780807076927
- Morris, Aldon (Summer 2012). "Rosa Parks, Strategic Activist (sidebar)". Contexts. 11 (3): 25. doi:10.1177/1536504212456178 (<https://doi.org/10.1177%2F1536504212456178>).

External links

- "Rosa Parks Papers" (<https://www.loc.gov/collections/rosa-parks-papers/about-this-collection/?locId=twloc>). Library of Congress.
- Rosa Parks Library and Museum (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070808131145/http://montgomery.troy.edu/rosa-parks/museum/>) at Troy University
- The Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute for Self Development (<http://www.rosaparks.org/>)
- Parks article in the Encyclopedia of Alabama (<http://www.encyclopediaofalabama.org/face/Article.jsp?id=h-1111>)
- Rosa Parks bus on display at the Henry Ford Museum (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101123154659/http://hfm.v.org/exhibits/rosaparks/home.asp>)
- Teaching and Learning Rosa Parks' Rebellious Life (<http://rosaparksbiography.org>)
- Norwood, Arlisha. "Rosa Parks" (<https://www.womenshistory.org/education-resources/biographies/rosa-parks>). National Women's History Museum. 2017.

Multimedia and interviews

- Appearances \(https://www.c-span.org/person/?rosaparks\) on C-SPAN
- "Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks Dies" - National Public Radio \(https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=4973548&sourceCode=gaw\)
- "Civil Rights Pioneer Rosa Parks 1913–2005" - Democracy Now! democracynow.org \(https://web.archive.org/web/20051201183406/http://www.democracynow.org/index.pl?issue=20051025\)

Others

- Complete audio/video and newspaper archive of the Montgomery bus boycott \(http://www.montgomeryboycott.com/\)
- Rosa Parks: cadre of working-class movement that ended Jim Crow \(http://www.themilitant.com/2005/6945/694558.html\)
- print media reaction to Parks' death \(http://www.newseum.org/todaysfrontpages/default_archive.asp?fpArchive=102505\) in the Newseum archive of front page images from 2005-10-25.
- Rosa Parks \(https://www.imdb.com/name/nm0663005/\) on IMDb
- Photo of Rosa Parks Childhood Home \(https://digitalalabama.com/famous-legendary-and-notorius-alabamians/rosa-parks-childhood-home/21419/\)

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Rosa_Parks&oldid=919120763"

This page was last edited on 1 October 2019, at 23:19 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.